

Presidential Speeches

About this speech

George W. Bush

November 06, 2003

Source: George W. Bush Presidential Library and Museum

At the 20th Anniversary Celebration of the National Endowment for Democracy in the United States Chamber of Commerce, President Bush delivers a speech on freedom in Iraq and the greater Middle East.

PRESIDENTIAL SPEECHES | GEORGE W. BUSH PRESIDENCY

November 6, 2003: Remarks on Freedom in Iraq and Middle East

Embed

View Transcript

PREVIOUS

March 20, 2003: Address on the Start of the Iraq War

NEXT

December 8, 2003: Address on Signing Medicare Legislation

More George W. Bush speeches

December 8, 2003: Address on Signing Medicare Legislation

January 7, 2004: Temporary Worker Program Proposal

January 20, 2004: State of the Union Address

July 17, 2004: Remarks on National Security and the War Effort

September 3, 2004: Remarks at the Republican National Convention

January 20, 2005: Second Inaugural Address

February 2, 2005: State of the Union Address

August 31, 2005: Remarks on Hurricane Katrina Relief Efforts

September 16, 2005: Hurricane Relief Address from New Orleans

December 19, 2005: Address on Renewal in Iraq

The Presidency

Issues & Policy

Experts

American Forum

News & Events

About

Contact Us

Miller Center Foundation

Privacy Policy

EXTERNAL PROJECTS

Connecting Presidential Collections

HELP INFORM THE DISCUSSION

Support the Miller Center

Subscribe

© Copyright 2018. Rector and Visitors of the University of Virginia